Apache Homelands LLC is a wholly owned subsidiary of Fort Sill Apache Industries (FSAI). FSAI in turn is owned by the Fort Sill Apache Tribe of Lawton, Oklahoma. Because the Fort Sill Apache Tribal members are descendants of the Chiricahua Tribe whose homeland is Southwestern New Mexico, Tribal leaders chose to name the new Albuquerque based company Apache Homelands. The company was established in March of 2016 to pursue federal government contracts. They were granted their 8(a) in September of 2016. Apache Homelands is headed by Mr. John Melton who has over 42 years of government contracting experience.

The headquarters for FSAI and Apache homelands is located at 320 Gold Ave., Suite 1200 in Albuquerque.

In less than three years, Apache Homelands has grown from $0 in sales and 1 employee to $8,000,000 in sales and 90 employees in New Mexico, Maryland, and Florida. As a direct result of this success, Apache Homelands has created 5 full time jobs and 25 seasonal jobs in New Mexico. Further, the company provides internships to Native American business students at the University of New Mexico. Federal customers include NASA and the US Forest Service.

“PTAC was instrumental in assisting Apache Homelands when we were establishing a presence in New Mexico. Lenny Bean and Diane Howell assisted us in contacting and meeting local Government agencies.” Says John Melton.

Apache Homelands has established long term goals and is projecting sales of $50,000,000 per year by 2023. As growth continues, more jobs will be created in the Albuquerque area.

Apache Homelands employees have received several awards recently, including the coveted Silver Snoopy award at NASA Kennedy Space Center.
For more than 25 years, Martin Linares has worked in the beekeeping industry. He has long been aware of the benefits that bee products have for people and the environment in general. In 2009, Mr. Linares formed his own company, Mlinares Apiaries, LLC, dedicated to the production of natural bee products. He and his family started with a few hives, but struggled due to the lack of economic resources. In 2016, Mr. Linares approached the IBA to seek help for growing his business. States, Mr. Linares, “I remember with pleasure the first interview I had with the IBA staff, they were very kind and gave me very good advice and motivation to continue with the project. The orientation provided by them was fundamental and necessary to realize that me and my family can achieve our goals.” The joint work on this project has resulted in a very considerable growth for his company. Becoming ready to import and creating a market for our products has not been an easy task, but thanks to the support and guidance that the IBA has provided to Mlinares Apiaries, the company has successfully imported honey from Mexico into the U.S., and has found clients interested in buying its products.

Mr. Linares states, “Originally, our plan was to sell honey locally, but we have seen the opportunity to expand the sale of our products around New Mexico and other states. We have received excellent assistance from Priscila Gurrola. For us, she has been a motivation to succeed. We have been invited to attend trade shows and trainings that are great for the development of every company. I recommend small companies to come to the IBA, they will receive excellent advice and assistance. Without their help, it would have been very difficult for us to achieve our goals. Thank you IBA!”
Pam Gallien, Speech-Language Pathologist, started her business in 1994 working from home, and in 1996 she purchased Digame Speech and Language Consultants. Digame was an existing business with a ten-year history of serving the Alamogordo community. In 2005, the business name was changed to Gallien Therapy Services to reflect the expansion of services to include orthopedic physical therapy. Ron Gallien joined the business at that time as a physical therapist and Vice President of the company. It wasn’t long before Gallien Therapy Services outgrew their original location and the Galliens designed and built a new 3,000 square foot facility to house their practice. Eleven years later, the Galliens are now in the process of expanding to a second satellite location for their speech pathology division. Funding for the expansion was made possible by a loan through First American Bank in Alamogordo.

Gallien Therapy Services offers physical and speech therapy services, and their mission is to provide patients with the best possible care to maximize their strengths, enable them to reach their fullest potential, and enhance their quality of life. The speech pathologists at Gallien work with both children and adults who have communication and swallowing deficits. Whether it is a child with a developmental delay or an adult who has lost the ability to speak after a stroke, the goal is achieving functional skills to live life to its fullest. Gallien physical therapists work with patients after an injury or accident to help them regain their ability to return to the activities they enjoy. Gallien Therapy Services offers the only outpatient speech therapy services in Otero and Lincoln Counties and is home to the only orthopedic specialty clinic in the area.

In 1996, Pam attended a 16-week Small Business Planning course hosted by the Small Business Development Center and New Mexico State University Alamogordo. “If it were not for that 16-week course, I could have never started that home business. It gave me the tools to get started and to grow. I would never have had the courage to go into business without it. The SBDC has been there every step of the way and has helped me to develop the skills needed to run my business. So I can do what I love… help people.” - Pam Gallien, President of Gallien Therapy Services, Inc. In addition, the SBDC has guided Gallien Therapy Services through the request for proposal bidding process, business expansion, business management and human resources issues. Pam has also attended numerous SBDC trainings and events including marketing workshops and a Women in Business Luncheon.

Gallien Therapy Services, Inc. continues to expand in order to offer needed services to the community. The business is committed to the citizens of Lincoln and Otero Counties. They are also honored to serve the military families of Holloman Air Force Base. Gallien Therapy and information regarding their services can be found online at www.gallientherapy.com. Gallien Therapy Services is in the business of changing lives for the better.

Pop Fizz...These two little words have brought much joy and happiness to so many people! This small business powerhouse started only five years ago and has grown to become a solid manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer of Mexican-style paletas (frozen treats) with an American soda fountain twist.

Rafael Alvarez co-founded Pop Fizz with his two sons, Carlos and Lorenzo, to bring the most delightful frozen desserts to Albuquerque, NM. As kids living in El Paso, Texas, the two brothers visited palterias in the area and in Juarez, Mexico with their father. Paletas easily became their favorite summertime treat as well as their inspiration for Pop Fizz.

The Alvarez family learned quickly that their key to success was literally at their fingertips. Made only of all-natural ingredients such as fruit, vegetables, and real cane sugar, Pop Fizz combines both Mexican and American cultures in offering these delectable cold treat favorites.

After opening their first location in the heart of Albuquerque’s South Valley in 2013, Pop Fizz’s popularity quickly grew as they soon realized their production supply could not keep up with customer demand. The company struggled with electrical and storage capacity and production challenges and faced their first round of growing pains. Utilizing their strong drive and determination, the Alvarez family secured financing with The Loan Fund to purchase new equipment and hire new employees to meet customer demand and expand operations.

In early 2014, the Alvarez family began offering their paletas, unique sodas, and tasty eats to a new and more popular venue located inside the Albuquerque Hispanic Cultural Center. This new location provided access to a commercial kitchen and freezer space enabling the development of new products such as Ice Cream Tacos, new paleta flavors such as Avocado and Mangonada, and even new frozen Paw-letas for pets.

Once Pop Fizz expanded their operations, the company was able to obtain exclusive catering rights for all events at the National Hispanic Cultural Center. The company combined all of its new products, its unique and fun catering events, and their two mobile units to create memorable and endearing products and services.

Pop Fizz proudly participates in different community outreach projects that combine their love of tasty frozen treats with making a difference in the community. Pop Fizz continuously works and collaborates with local schools and non-profit organizations to help raise funds for local projects and community initiatives. The company also participates in community events such as Tasty Tuesday in Hyde Park, Route 66 Summer Fest, Downtown and Los Ranchos Growers Markets, and other grass-roots events designed to bring people from the community together in fun and unique venues. Another way Pop Fizz is making a difference is through their recycling efforts by providing recyclable plastic packaging, cups, spoons, straws, and popsicle sticks in doing their part to move our community toward a more Eco-conscious and sustainable future.

The Small Business Development Center at Central New Mexico Community College (“SBDC”) has played a vital role in helping Pop Fizz establish their vision and focus on the frozen treat market in Albuquerque’s South Valley. “The SBDC helped us focus on our direction. When we first started, we needed direction and guidance. They helped us to nail down our main objective: paletas. At our little shop in the South Valley, we were busy doing other things that took away from our main goal. We were able to refocus and look at the bigger picture of future expansion and possibly wholesaling. This guidance of looking toward the future shaped our long-term vision,” said Lorenzo Alvarez.

This direction led Pop Fizz toward its current expansion and the opening of their newest space: The Pop Fizz Lab. The new space houses additional production capacity and a new retail location for the company in Los Ranchos. Their latest venture into manufacturing and retail hopes to be the catalyst the company is looking for to propel Pop Fizz into the general consciousness of frozen connoisseurs everywhere. The Alvarez family’s dream of wholesale and retail expansion will be a reality with their newest location. The grand opening celebration of the new facility took place on August 31, 2018.
MEGA Power Electric, LLC was established in 2015 by Shane and Meagan Carpenter, offering electrical contracting, specializing in commercial, industrial and oil and gas. Shane had been a licensed electrician with many years of experience working for himself and Meagan had just finished her business degree with a seasoned background in office management. The couple wanted to pursue a career where they could run a family business, as well as getting involved in the community.

By July 2017, the company was growing, and FAST! They weren’t prepared for this huge increase. They sought assistance from the SBDC at NMSU Carlsbad and anticipated receiving some general help, maybe some information to read over. Over the next two months, the Carpenters, the SBDC at NMSU Carlsbad and Carlsbad National Bank collaborated to secure financing required to satisfy short-term cash needs and soothe growing pains.

MEGA Power Electric, LLC continues to grow. The company has successfully landed more contracts and has been able to retain employees as well as provide additional jobs. Having experienced employees from all across the board, they pride themselves on diversity and are able to offer services to many types of industries. This has resulted in favorable outcomes by not limiting their services to certain types of jobs. They do a lot of local work and like to encourage contractors to use local sub-contractors. Shane and Meagan have also been able to donate to their local schools and do volunteer work as well.

“We would recommend the SBDC to any new business who is struggling to get through the inevitable growing pains that the first few years present. Starting a business is stressful in so many different ways. For us the SBDC was a Godsend!”

Shane and Meagan have big plans to continue to grow and be a fixture in this community for a very long time. They have both been awarded with The Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce, Carlsbad 40 Under 40 award, honoring forty dynamic young leaders for both their occupational and community leadership.

Since their relationship began with the New Mexico Small Business Development Center in 2007, they have started four businesses in Eastern New Mexico and West Texas.

Because clothes are a major need for the population in this area, Jesus and Martha saw a niche opportunity in the western wear retail clothing market with a specific focus to the Hispanic cowboy and cowgirl. With Jesus’ vast background in retail and ample resources to begin a lifelong dream of becoming a business owner, his relationship with the Small Business Development Center at Clovis Community College began. He started by attending several seminars and workshops to increase his business knowledge.

Within a year of working on his business plan, Jesus successfully opened his doors. Jesus expanded his product line to include small selected food items, calling cards and cell phone plans. In 2012, Mr. Hinojos decided to seek financing to purchase the building where his business was operating. The SBDC provided assistance in developing his financing proposal and the Bank of Clovis provided the financing needed to move his business to the next level.

In 2012, the Hinojos’ decided to open a cell phone retail store in the Portales service area and again, reached out to the SBDC for assistance. Martha attended several seminars and workshops to build her knowledge of the business side of ownership. A plan was created and the Hinojos’ successfully opened their second business Clovis Wireless, LLC dba Tex-Mex Communications.

‘The whole staff is very helpful, friendly and informative…very attentive’, said Jesus Hinojos, Owner and President of El Caporal Western Wear.

JACK’S PLASTIC WELDING, INC

 годы бизнеса: 35
 тип бизнеса: производство
 количество сотрудников: 12
 сообщество: Азтик
 SBDC: San Juan Community College

Outdoor Recreation at its Best

Jack’s Plastic Welding, Inc. which started in 1983, moved from Bondad, CO to Aztec, NM in 1990. Jack’s started fabricating whitewater rafts, dry bags, and waterproof mattresses. They grew from that niche by using rugged fabrics to build emergency spill containers and pipe plugs for the oil and gas industry. Recent aerospace prototype work has resulted in a 1-year contract for supplying Recovery Rafts and Stabilization Collars to Raytheon for one of our NASA manned space capsules. “The niche for prototype work has provided some interesting challenges, which has helped us, grow and become more flexible” said Errol Baade. That niche has included projects from small inflatable items for Medical training devices to inflatable sleds to do ice core studies in Greenland and Antarctica, and to inflatables to help study and work on saving Coral Reefs. The company is transitioning to employee owned which will allow Jack Kloepfer to retire. Errol Baade is the CEO who is overseeing the transition and company growth.

Jack and Errol are supportive of education to improve business operations. Most of their staff has attended courses offered by the New Mexico Manufacturing Extension Partnership to create processes that all can follow. The company has worked hard to develop a team-oriented philosophy. This allows ideas for improved efficiency to flow from bottom to top, which in turn keeps the business flexible so they can do those prototypes ranging from a 1.5’ x 2.5’ inflatable to an inflatable sled that carry supplies for a 30 day trip across Greenland and Antarctica. As owners, they have attended NxLevel Entrepreneur Training and Emerging Leaders. Working with the SBDC has also helped them focus on growing the business and maintaining profitability while also focusing on the day-to-day tasks.

“SBDC has been instrumental in our growth and continues to be as we move into another expansion.” Errol Baade CEO JPWINC

Jack’s Plastic Welding, Inc. continues to grow its product line, customer base, and leadership density. They have outgrown their current space and are working on finding a good location to house a larger manufacturing facility. They will complete their ISO 9000 certification in spring 2019, which will lead to additional opportunities. This 35-year-old company is poised to continue going strong far into the future.
The Small Business Development Center at UNM Gallup is proud to honor Gallup Pipeline & Compliance Services, LLC as their newest Star Client. Based in Gallup, New Mexico and owned by Roger and Rae Marie Montano, this local business concentrates on energy specialty services and provides protection, pre-exavation and installation services to gas, oil, water and power industries.

The Montano’s have a strong commercial enterprise background which favorably positions them to serve the pipeline support needs of the greater McKinley County area. Roger has earned several certifications in the energy industry in the last 10 years, while Rae Marie has accumulated over 30 years of administrative and office-management skills. Gallup Pipeline & Compliance Services primarily focus is on markets which include natural gas transmission lines which transport from the San Juan Basin and the West Texas fields to the power plants of Arizona, California and Mexico. Roger notes, “The aging infrastructure has to be protected or upgraded in order to meet compliance criteria set forth by government mandates.”

With the assistance of the SBDC at UNM Gallup, the Montano’s were able to leverage their marketing and government contracting goals. Roger says, “With the guidance and assistance obtained from Ms. Cynthia M. Jarvison of the Gallup SBDC, we got help in facilitating the contract process by ensuring that we are aware of what we were to have in place to gain the competitive edge on the bigger contractors who threaten our small business existence.”

“When you are a small contractor, you’ve got to be nimble. Taking advantage of government programs is a good way to do just that.” The SBDC was able to help the Montano’s by familiarizing them with the process of applying for and obtaining government contracts and taking advantage of higher energy demands which will require new infrastructure leading in turn to requirements for protection, upgrade and repair.

For the Montano’s, the SBDC offered the support and information they needed to establish and grow their business. “We were able to produce a quality government profile and capabilities statement for our business. She (Jarvison) was so patient and thorough in meeting our needs that we always felt comfortable reaching out to her when we had questions or needed clarification. Without Gallup SBDC’s assistance we would have still been trying to figure out the maze of registrations.”

Dr. James Malm, UNM-Gallup Chief Executive Officer, is proud of the work of the SBDC. “Whenever we can support the development of small businesses we are fulfilling our mission of helping people achieve their educational and professional goals. I offer congratulations to the Montano’s in their venture and wish them continued luck and prosperity.”

Brewing Up New Business in Hot Springs

Travel enthusiasts, Marianne Blaue and John Masterson, decided to relocate to Truth or Consequences, NM after staying in the cozy little town along the Rio Grande. Besides year-round sun, blue skies, vast mountains, and amazing hot springs, the couple fell in love with the sense of community, an array of artists, and an abundance of friendly people. In their minds, one thing would make the town perfect – a place where they could find a great beer.

Moving from Washington State to this desert gem, meant these soon-to-be business partners needed plenty of advice – on business, brewing beer, the perfect location, and planning at all levels.

The Small Business Development Center at Doña Ana Community College offered business planning, financial projections, demographics reports, lending and other development advice; Central New Mexico Community College delivered brewery training; while Main Street in T or C provided the location.

When challenges arose – zoning, renovating to code, working with engineers and architects, the pair juggled all simultaneously. Warnings about finding reliable staff were unfounded. The couple agree that they are blessed to have a terrific team always eager to learn and work hard. With the assistance of the SBDC, Marianne and John were able to receive funding from Local Economic Development Act (LEDA), USDA, and 1st Savings Bank for the startup of the Truth or Consequences Brewing Company.

Creating the perfect “go-to destination” was just as easy. The duo’s joint passions, for community, promoting artists, and having fun, led them towards serving on local boards as well as participating in fund raisers. Today, the brewery is a popular hub with hosting gatherings and presentations, where tourists and locals can meet and learn. Live music and art-filled walls showcase area talent and craft beers along with great food entice people to stay late into the evening; downtown is a stir of activities.

Offering their advice, Blaue and Masterson say, “We would recommend any aspiring entrepreneur to consult with SBDC, to better understand what it takes to make a great idea into a great business.”
After 27 years of providing automotive and diesel repairs to the community of Springer and the surrounding areas, Mr. Terrance Kear decided to open up his own shop to continue to serve current and future customers. The company’s mission is to provide the best possible service to every customer, so they will return again in the future. Terrance has proven himself to be one of the best automotive and Power Stroke diesel repairers for miles around.

Kear Automotive Service and Repair provides maintenance and heavy line auto repair for small cars to light duty trucks that include diesel engine repair. Terreance Kear is ASE Master certified and carries his Ford Senior Master and Ford Diesel Certifications. The business is a critical part of Northeastern New Mexico being that the automotive service and repair shop is located off of the I-25 highway with numerous small farming and ranching communities within an hour, whereas larger shops are over two hours away. Customers come from Mora, Ocate, Raton, Las Vegas, Farley, Roy, Gladstone, Angel Fire, Eagles Nest, Cimarron, Mosquero, and other small communities making his shop vital to meet the needs of his customers. Kear Automotive has teamed up with a past Star Client, Napa Auto Parts, to be a supplier of parts for the business.

The SBDC assisted Terrance in successfully writing a business plan in hopes of obtaining financing, compliance with the state and federal regulations, and continuous support of running the business. As a result, the proposal was used to start the business by solidifying financing from the First National Bank of Trinidad in addition to owners investment to build a custom 5,000 sq. ft. shop that meets the needs of Terrance and his staff. Terrance states, “The Small Business Development Center helped me to present an impressive business plan. Thanks to their help, I was able to get approved for the loan that made this dream come true. Thank you for all of your help.” Future plans include working towards becoming the leading provider of automotive repair and service in Northeastern New Mexico.
Los Alamos Chiropractic Center (LACC) has been serving the Los Alamos community and surrounding areas for over thirty years. LACC shares a building with Acupuncture Center of Los Alamos and Sage Integrated health, which is composed of massage and posture therapists. The building is located in the Mary Deal Building, and shares a parking lot with the movie theater.

On July 1, 2018, Dr. Charles Lenz, DC purchased Los Alamos Chiropractic Center. His goal is to continue to provide excellent chiropractic services to Los Alamos and surrounding areas for another thirty years. The mission is to help every man, woman, and child experience optimal health through specific chiropractic care. Having a healthy spine is important from birth to a person’s final days of life. Dr. Lenz is experienced at providing care to people of all ages, and understands the healthcare needs at different stages of life.

“When starting the loan process, I didn’t realize how involved the paperwork was going to be. I spent countless hours searching the internet trying to figure out the proper way to prepare these documents with not much luck. I contacted Joseph Montes at NMSBDC and was able to meet with him and discuss my situation and what was needed. He was extremely helpful throughout the process. The only thing that I regretted was not getting in contact with him sooner, it would have reduced a lot of stress and headaches. He was able to explain to me what was needed and why. I don’t believe that I would be a business owner today if it wasn’t for his help.”

Since being a part of Los Alamos Chiropractic Center, Dr. Lenz has been able to quickly establish a patient base. He is now helping the people of Los Alamos achieve optimal health through safe and gentle chiropractic care. At LACC almost all insurance is now accepted, including Blue Cross Blue Shield which is the insurance that the lab employees have, and more recently have become participating providers for medicare.

“I am very grateful to Joseph Montes of the New Mexico Small Business Development Center. The service provided is very important in helping people like myself. I was able to secure a loan from the bank after Joe helped me, not only in giving the bank what they needed but helping me understand what I needed to do for the future. Since then, Joe has continued to support me throughout the process of actually running the business end of the practice. I can’t thank him enough for all that he has done for us.”
More than thirty years ago Abenicio Sisneros and his three sons, Martin, Alex, and Philip went into business installing ductwork in homes in Belen, New Mexico, located 25 minutes south of Albuquerque. They manufacture high quality, prefabricated ductwork for commercial businesses.

With a total bankroll of less than $2,500, the father and sons began with a second hand pick-up truck, a four-foot hand break and a portable 24 gauge Lockformer Pittsburg lock machine.

The fledging business didn’t have a shop, so they trucked the machines to the job site and formed the HVAC ductwork on the site. It didn’t take long for things to start rolling. One house would lead to two more, residential jobs led to small commercial jobs, all the while building up more equipment, employees, and outgrowing three different shops.

In 1990, seeing a huge demand for prefabricated ductwork from other local contractors, Sisneros Bros. Mfg. made a decision to go strictly manufacturing. It was a tough decision and there were many obstacles to overcome including a boycott from once loyal union contractors. The commitment paid off. Sisneros Bros. Mfg. now employees over 30 full time employees in a 45,000 sq. ft. facility and is selling pre-fabricated ductwork nationwide and internationally to some very demanding industries. As far as Sisneros Bros. Mfg. is concerned, the sky is the limit for growth. The company is very motivated by its up and coming 3rd and 4th generations, now that they are starting to play key roles in the continued success of Sisneros Bros. Mfg.

The SBDC at UNM Valencia has been working with Sisneros Bros. for the past 20 years. “The SBDC helped Sisneros Brothers to write a Business plan which in turn helped us to get a commercial loan to help reinvest in our company for the growth we were experiencing at the time. It also helped to get SBA 8A Status.”

Flexibility is a trait that has helped Sisneros Bros. Mfg. grow successfully, and they plan to remain flexible. They have contracts within both the private sector as well as the Federal Government. When you have a project that has stringent requirements, short lead times and custom designs, they can assist you.

K-9: Where Hugs and Play are the Design of the Day

K-9 Design Grooming and Boarding began serving the Pet Families of Tucumcari in 2000.

The business began its services from a small trailer, and eventually its popularity led them to a larger facility. Melissa and Charlie Morrison offer more than their skills in grooming. Each pet and its family know they are special and will receive much more than a haircut.

Dogs clamber to get passed the entry door for their treat—time with Missy! Large and small dogs love their “play day” at K-9. Doggie personalities blend and romp together in the play yard. Safety, exercise and joyful tails tell the story.

Local shelter dogs begin their new lives with baths and hugs to prepare for new families. K-9’s kennel services are prized by both dog and cat owners. Tucumcari’s remote location requires an alternative to leaving pets at home alone when owners travel. There are no sad puppy-faces when they are delivered to K-9. When the folks are out of town, they can be assured that their family pets are being well taken care of and playing and meeting new friends!

Tucumcari has a high population of elderly people. Their constant pet companions fill the Senior’s lives, but pet care may be difficult. Having K-9 nearby prevents the need for driving over an hour away for services.

Missy says: “SBDC helped find the proper funding to expand my business. These very knowledgeable ladies put me on the right path. Vicki Watson and Barbara Hicklin have the knowledge to help the lost.”

The business has grown each year and now plans to expand its facilities. This expansion provides growth for K-9 and a second income stream from personal-storage units.

Their world of happy pet families will continue to grow and prosper.

Stop by to see them—Missy is the one under the table trying to corner the playful Yorkie!
MARTY’S MEALS

Sandra Bosben

Years in Business: 8
Type of Business: Pet Food Manufacturer
Number of Employees: 7
Community: Santa Fe
SBDC: Santa Fe Community College

The Love Story Continues

“Feed Love. For Life” is the motto for Marty’s Meals, the pet food manufacturer that has taken Santa Fe and now Boulder, Colorado by storm.

Owner Sandy Bosben’s vision for her company has continued to evolve since we last acknowledged Marty’s Meals in 2014. The pet food industry has followed the lead of independent manufacturers like her and turned its attention to the market segment of pet owners desiring to feed their animals as well if not better than themselves. Manufacturing of fresh, and gently cooked foods has become a norm and advances in freeze drying are making it possible to ship the food worldwide. Recognizing the market similarity to Santa Fe, in 2016 Sandy opened a retail store in Boulder, Colorado. This location is now turning a profit, accounting for about a third of the organization’s sales.

Although Sandy has no intention of competing with the corporate giants, she has become something of a regional leader in the industry. Sandy’s approach to species-appropriate recipes is a result of her work with consultant Dr. Richard Patton, an internationally-known animal nutritionist. Marty’s Meals has the distinct honor of being the first line of pet food to obtain Non GMO certification for its chicken and turkey recipes.

Since the business’ launch in 2010 with financing from The Loan Fund, Sandy has been intent on making Marty’s Meals a case study in how sustainability and equitable business practices can fuel each other’s success. Her philosophy of ‘triple bottom line plus’ drives the decisions she makes about sourcing, preparing and packaging her products. “We devote a great deal of attention to how we source every ingredient for our dog and cat food products. We get to know our small-scale farmers and ranchers. We work with suppliers who share our values for the ethical treatment and raising of healthy animals; we only use 100% certified organic vegetables and grains and we source as many ingredients regionally as are available. Locally-sourced ingredients ensure the shortest farm to kitchen delivery time.” said Sandy.

Now Marty’s sales exceed $1 million annually, and to remain competitive, Sandy has chosen to expand into a bigger facility that can accommodate freeze drying equipment and shipping. Costs to ship her products had been prohibitive, limiting her ability to sell online. Freeze drying will solve this problem. and Marty’s Meals will develop an online store to capture more of this audience. With the help of the Santa Fe SBDC, Sandy obtained a LEDA grant as well as JTIP funding to cover some of the expense. She plans to add 11 more manufacturing jobs. Sandy said, ‘if it had not been for the technical assistance and support from my business advisor, Debbie Collins, at the Santa Fe SBDC, Marty’s Meals would not be where it is today. I started working with Debbie when Marty’s Meals was just an idea. Her expertise, guidance and resourcefulness have been invaluable. She has helped me avoid more pitfalls than I can count. I look forward to working together into the future as Marty’s Meals continues to grow. I consider Debbie a friend as well as my go-to business advisor.”

What does the future hold? Marty’s Meals will be featured in a documentary coming out in 2019. Sandy also wants to enhance the quality of her employees’ lives by offering a retirement plan and assistance with health care coverage. She also plans to work with NMSU’s Extension Program to source a dependable supply of organic vegetables from New Mexico farmers. Healthy pet food is here to stay.
Mitchel Boomgaarn had wanted to own his own auto shop since he was in his early 20’s. An opportunity arose to purchase the shop where he had been employed for 10 years. He had some ideas for how he could make the shop more profitable, and decided to move forward with the acquisition. Mitchel came to the Deming SBDC when he encountered difficulty obtaining financing. “When I started trying to purchase the business, I was running into a lot of walls. I had already been turned down by a bank”.

When Mitchel arrived at the SBDC, his business plan had gaps and he had not thought about cash flow projections. “I didn’t have a clue how to do any of that. But Mario LaFragola, my SBDC advisor, didn’t just sit me down and say ‘I will fix that for you’. he walked me through everything so that I could understand it. Now I have more insight as to what’s going on, and I have a better chance for this business to succeed”. With the assistance received from the SBDC, Mitchel was able to secure the financing to purchase the assets of his former employer.

Mitch realized his dream in 2017 when he opened Mitchel’s Auto Service and Repair, LLC, a full service repair facility in Deming, New Mexico.

Less than three weeks after opening the shop, Mitchel was working on a Saturday assisting a customer with their RV. The carburetor flooded and backfired, igniting a fire that burned 38% of his body. He woke up at the Burn Unit in Lubbock Texas. The doctors initially had doubt Mitchel would survive his wounds. Throughout the recovery, Mitchell was inspired by the outpouring of support and prayers from the Deming community. The result was that he returned to work months before his doctors thought he would.

Mitchel Boomgaarn has not only overcome obstacles that would put many out of business, he has successfully expanded his business in the past year to include towing services. Additionally, he is in the process of purchasing a building in the Silver City area to open a second location. The business currently has four employees and will soon add staff with the opening of the second location. Mitchel plans to work with the SBDC as he moves forward with the expansion of his business and into the future.
Authentic Peruvian Culture and Food Here in New Mexico

Trotsky Barreto, who originally is from Lima Peru and his wife Gloria Hidrogo, a well-known Mexican artist opened the Taos version of Quechua a year and a half ago. They serve Peruvian food so authentic that when the Peruvian Consulate came to visit New Mexico, they came to Taos to eat at Quechua. They treat their customers as part of the family and serve dishes that are delicious and a true expression of Peruvian culture. “Our business is built on the support the SBDC has granted us... Marko has been there throughout tough times and has provided us with the tools and strength to keep moving forward.” – Trotsky Barreto, owner

The whole concept of Quechua Restaurant was for people to learn more about Peruvian culture and food, for the citizens of New Mexico to realize they have a home out there in the world where they might not know anyone but they will always be welcomed with open arms and a delicious warm plate of food. Recently Quechua opened a second restaurant in Santa Fe that was so successful that they are currently moving to a larger location nearer the Plaza. The future of Quechua is to keep giving back, for people from all around to leave our restaurants with a full stomach, a smile on their face and Peru on their bucket list.
